

The Sprinters Burndown Chart

When it came to hours remaining, the beginning didn't move at all. There are also a few valleys on few days. This is because most of the team was busy studying for midterms and doing assignments from other courses. But at the very end, we had much less assignments and midterms to study for, so we were able to finish most tasks for this sprint.

There is no previous sprint velocity, but we expect that our last sprint had our hours remaining graph look much closer to the ideal burndown. This is because we didn't have many midterms to study for, and tasks were much easier than this sprint.